

I am a Flight Attendant writing to urge you to not allow cell phone usage during flight. There is already a problem at our airline with passengers not listening during boarding because they are so involved in their conversation that they don't hear the announcement to turn the cell phones off. Our world is so technological today, there is no phone etticacy, people are down right rude. The environment on the A/C does not need to add the stress of cell phones ringing (might I add in obnoxious tones), much less listening to Joe Business man go on and on about his business for all to hear. Also, I am worried about communication taking place between terrorists.

Thank you for listening.

Corri Rathbone
Seattle based F/A